

Acknowledgments

The author would like to acknowledge the help of several people in the production of this special issue of the Constitutional Forum in the Faculty of Law's Centre for Constitutional Studies at the University of Alberta.

First, and most importantly I would like to thank Patricia Paradis, Executive Director of the Centre for Constitutional Studies, for her permission and assistance with putting together this special issue. Without her enthusiasm and dedication to constitutional studies, this issue would not have been possible.

Second, I would like to thank all of those who helped in the review of the documents and articles. In particular I would like to thank Brian Mlazgar for his editorial assistance in the initial drafts and iterations of the articles in this issue. His careful review and suggestions considerably improved the final product. I would also like to thank Roy Romanow, Ed Broadbent, and Dr. J Peter Meekison for their preliminary reviews and suggestions in regard to the articles that involved them.

Finally, I would like to acknowledge the contribution of all of those who participated in the negotiations and patriation of the Constitution of Canada, especially during the years 1980 to 1982. Your contribution to the country should never be forgotten.
