Artist Statement

Often as we journey through life, we’re called to make tough choices that cause us to leave behind the comfort of familiar surroundings and relationships, family, culture, and predictable experiences. The yearning to discover more however, is what drives us into the unknown, where the sights and sounds of the ‘yet-to-be’, the excitement and potential inherent in new possibilities, are very seductive. There is always a moment though, poised between two worlds, where the longing and the fear collide – “Should I? What if?”
