

The colonial machine depends on the sacrifice of lives and homes

#SiteC <sup>1</sup>	Pearl Dace <sup>2</sup>	Moose <sup>3</sup>
	Pygmy Whitefish	White-tailed deer
	Bull Trout	Mule deer
	Spottail Shiner	Elk
	Western Toad	Grizzly
	Striped Hairstreak	Black bear
	Common Woodnymph	Caribou
	Tawny Crescent	Mountain goat
	Assiniboine Skipper	Sheep
	Old World Swallowtail	Porcupine
	Beaverpond Baskettail	Rabbit
	Alberta Arctic	Beaver
	Eastern Red Bat	Ducks
	Broad-winged Hawk	Geese
	Cackling Goose	Trout
	Great Blue Heron	Northern Pike
	Western Grebe	Walleye
	Short-eared Owl	Whitefish
	Nelson's Sparrow	Grayling
	Double-crested Cormorant	Saskatoon berry
	Forster's Tern	Wild raspberry
	Wandering Tattler	Blueberry
	American Bittern	Wild strawberry
	Cape May Warbler	Choke cherry
	Barn Swallow	Low bush cranberry
	Bank Swallow	High bush cranberry
	Yellow Rail	Rat root
	Protracted Tarpaper	Mint
	Smiling Shadow	Labrador tea
	Little Bluestem	Wild rhubarb
	Fox Sedge	Diamond willow
	Tender Sedge	Dandelion
	European Water-Hemlock	Rosehip
	Gardner's Sagebrush	Red willow
	Meadow Arnica	Birch
	Riverbank Anemone	Water snakes

---

<sup>1</sup> Mark Gilbert, Frank Margitan, Gary Webster, David Imper, Carl Jonasson, Bev Trautman.
<http://www.timescolonist.com/opinion/columnists/demod-travis-close-look-at-site-c-shows-cosy-relationships-1.2286398>

---

<sup>2</sup> an incomplete list from Appendix 8 of the Joint Review Panel Report for the Site C Dam – Species at Risk Tables
<https://www.ceaa-acee.gc.ca/050/documents/p63919/99173E.pdf>

---

<sup>3</sup> an incomplete list from Duncan's First Nation testimony at the Joint Review Panel, on page 452 of its report
<https://www.ceaa-acee.gc.ca/050/documents/p63919/99173E.pdf>