Elyse Borlé: Elyse Borlé hums while washing the dishes. Recently, that kitchen chore has been her method of choice for avoiding the labour of completing her Master of Social Work at the University of Calgary. Despite the songs and suds, she anticipates convocating in Fall 2018. She is eager to delve into her new career path – whatsoever that may be.

Sheliza Ladhani: Sheliza Ladhani, BA, MSW, is a Research Assistant within the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Calgary. Her research practice and interests are in the areas of anti-racism education, system collaboration to support youth transitioning to adulthood, and partnering with community to bridge research and practice.

Alleson Mason: Alleson Mason is a Doctoral student in the Department of Educational Policy Studies at the University of Alberta. Her research interests include supplementary and community education, parent engagement in education, and culturally inclusive education.

Jinny Menon: Jinny Menon is a PhD candidate at the University of Alberta, and a member of the university's Centre for Research for Teacher Education and Development. For Jinny, a multiplicity of re-presenting and sharing knowledge is helpful in re-stor(y)ing humane practices and understandings. Alongside co-participants, she is currently engaging in a multiperspectival narrative inquiry into the curriculum-making experiences of South Asian girls, mothers, and teachers.
