Artist Statement

“Better late than never” is a common refrain in Jamaica. That sentiment is aptly demonstrated in this photograph of an elegantly dressed church goer as she makes her way to church along the beach, reflective and unhurried, amidst the fishing boats.

It was a little warm for our worshipper, but the light, and the colour of the boat were a perfect complement to her elegance.

This photograph was taken at Parottee Bay, St. Elizabeth (on the Southwestern coast of Jamaica).
