

News

First International M-Libraries Conference 13th – 14th November 2007

Gillian Needham
Head of Strategic and Service Development
The Open University Library and Learning Resources Centre
Milton Keynes UK
E-mail: g.needham@open.ac.uk

© 2007 Needham. This is an Open Access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/2.0>), which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original work is properly cited.

The Open University (UK) and Athabasca University (Canada) are hosting the very first international conference to focus on the delivery of library services and resources to users via mobile and handheld devices. This event on November 13th and 14th at the Open University in Milton Keynes will bring together researchers, managers and practitioners from around the world who are interested in extending the value and flexibility of libraries in new and exciting ways.

For more details and to register, please visit the website at:
<http://library.open.ac.uk/mLibraries/>.