

Contributors

Marlene Zichi Cohen

Assistant professor at the University of Iowa College of Nursing. She is a psychiatric nurse. Her research program concerns the congruence and incongruence between nurses and patients and ways to help nurses better understand patients' experiences and thereby better meet patients' needs. She is currently conducting phenomenological research with surgical patients and their nurses which is funded by the National Institutes of Health, National Center for Nursing Research.

Martha J. Craft

Associate professor at the University of Iowa College of Nursing. She has been a pediatric nurse for over 20 years. Her research program investigates the effects of childhood illness on siblings. She is editing a book, soon to be published by W.B. Saunders, on nursing interventions for infants and children.

jan jagodzinski

Associate professor of Education at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Currently editor of RE(Vision)!: Journal of the Caucus on Social Theory and Art Education. Writings have dealt with art education, critical political thought, aesthetics, and curriculum theorizing. Currently pursuing a direction in postmodern thought and ecofeminism. Seminal essays may be found in Art Education, Studies in Art Education, Canadian Review of Art Education Research, CSEA Annual Art Journal. Chapters have appeared in Art in a Democracy, Readings in Canadian Art Education.

David W. Jardine

Assistant professor of Early Childhood Education, Department of Teacher Education and Supervision, University of Calgary, Calgary, Alberta.

Marilyn A. Ray

Assistant professor of nursing and faculty associate of the Center for Human Caring at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center, School of Nursing, Denver, Colorado. Teaching, research, and writings have dealt with human caring in health care organizational cultures; the ethics of caring and the ethics of principle in critical care units; transcultural phenomena in nursing, health care, and society; and the advancement of human science research methods for nursing, health, and healing. Most recent book, coedited with M. Jean Watson, is The Ethics of Care and the Ethics of Cure: Synthesis in Chronicity. She holds a Ph.D. in transcultural nursing and is certified as a specialist in that area.

Marita Titler

At the time this research was conducted, she was a Clinical Nurse Specialist II at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics. She is currently a doctoral student in the nursing program at the University of Iowa College of Nursing.