

Acknowledgments

---

The review process is essential to the quality of this journal. We thank the following people who reviewed manuscripts in 1989. Their thoughtful critiques contribute to the advancement of human science research and pedagogic praxis.

Idrenne Alparaque, University of Central Washington; Loren Barritt, University of Michigan; Larry Beauchamp, University of Alberta; Vangie Bergum, University of Alberta; Janis Blakey, University of Alberta; Hans Bleeker, Rijksuniversiteit Utrecht; Alan Blum, York University; Robert Burch, University of Alberta; Terry Carson, University of Alberta; Therese Craig, University of Alberta; Rod Evans, University of Calgary; Lorene Everett-Turner, University of Alberta; Amedeo Giorgi, Université du Québec à Montréal; Henry Giroux, Oxford University; Madeleine Grumet, University of Rochester; Steen Halling, Seattle University; Lous Heshusius, York University; Jane Hewes, University of Alberta; Margaret Hunsberger, University of Calgary; Jan Jagodzinski, University of Alberta; David Jardine, University of Calgary; Tom Kieren, University of Alberta; Bas Levering, Rijksuniversiteit Utrecht; Deborah Manson, University of Alberta; June McConaghy, Edmonton Public School Board; Ray Morrow, University of Alberta; Karel Mulderij, Rijksuniversiteit Utrecht; Antoinette Oberg, University of Victoria; John Osborne, University of Alberta; Jim Paul, University of Alberta; Valerie Polakow, University of Michigan; Pat Rafferty, University of Alberta; Marilyn Ray, University of Colorado; Wallie Samiroden, University of Alberta; William Schubert, University of Illinois; Harvey Scott, University of Alberta; David Seamon, Kansas State University; Ken Shapiro, Bates College Health Center, Maine; David Smith, University of Lethbridge; Stephen Smith, Simon Fraser University; Walter Werner, University of British Columbia; John Willinsky, University of Calgary; Anne Winning, University of Alberta; Amie Zelmer, Capricornia Institute, Australia