I would like to thank Dr. Dennis Sweeney for his advice and guidance that helped bring this edition to term. My gratitude extends to Lauren Wheeler and Allison Jones, the editorial committee, for their insights and suggestions during the review process. Their hard work was indispensable to the completion of this volume. Similarly, I appreciated the patience and diligence of this edition's contributors as we worked through the editorial process. I tip my hat in deference to the anonymous reviewers, whose time and efforts are valued greatly and whose feedback undoubtedly improved this edition's articles. I also thank the Department of History and Classics at the University of Alberta for their continued financial support of this journal. Finally, I thank the department's unrivalled administrator, Melanie Marvin, for her management of the journal's website.
