

Acknowledgements

I thank Brian Gold, Mariya Melentyeva and Caroline Lieffers, the editorial committee, for managing the peer review process, and for advice in the production of the journal. The organizers of the 2010 History and Classics Graduate Student Conference at the University of Alberta invited me to call for papers at the Conference, resulting in more submissions. I thank all participants of the Conference for a positive response and for keeping a good relationship between the Conference and the Journal. I am grateful to all authors for submitting essays and for their patience and cooperation during the editorial process. I am deeply thankful to all essay reviewers for taking their precious time to read and suggest ways to improve the quality of the essays. I relied more on the cooperation of these experts than on my own knowledge in editing the essays. A word of thanks goes to the Cambridge University Press for sending us books to review. Finally, I thank Faculty and staff in the Department of History and Classics for all the support, and Melanie Marvin for her help and tips, and for posting the Journal online.
